Spotlight on '67

Stage 1966-67 is set. Cue the spotlight.

Swiftly under the spotlight . . . birth of a school newspaper . . . stealing of the victory bell . . . Homecoming . . . crowded halls . . . senior cords. Rays of light greedily snatching pieces and scenes . . . seven-inch November snow . . . IBM grade cards . . . new sophomores . . . folksingers and the Coffee House . . . college entrance exams . . . ferris wheels, cotton candy, Centennial . . . pep sessions . . . "Spirit Bone."

Fleeting glimpses captured by radiant rays—dreams of youth, dedication to tradition, responsibility to duty as New Havenites struggle to meet the promise of tomorrow.

Look sharp, New Haven, You're On!

School day includes buses, lines, halls, books,

JUST ONE MORE DAY—Just seven more hours that are only a fraction of the 15,120 hours of any student's 12 years of school.

Morning: Pushing, shoving, moaning off the school bus. Half awake and plodding slowly, wide awake and walking briskly, the student arrives at school.

Oof, pant—finally at the locker. Plop, plop, plop, books unloaded. Arms free. Duh, combination? Think, think 16 . . . 2. Viola! Open sesame, Time: 7:59.

Wheee-bonk. Door open. Into restroom. Fight through masses. Agh—no air, just hairspray. Um—good. One square inch of mirror space. Sorry 'bout the elbow in your eye, Mary. UH-uh that's the bell! Gotta run.

Noon: Endless lunch line. Everybody gets out at 12:05? Cafeteria finally in sight; line moving so fast it's scary. Food for the famished. Erk—no seats. Oh! There's a chair. Eat. Still hungry, raid Canteen. Two minutes to run to meeting. If late? Smile, look guilty, and finish candy bar. Time: 12:29.

Afternoon: Pep session. Big game tonight. Buzzing and noise as students arrive. Band plays. Cheerblocks chant. Air tense with excitement. New cheers introduced. Clapping. Coach speaks. Skit. Good luck, Team. Time: 3:07. Back to class. 5 . . . 4 . . . 3 . . . 2 . . . 1! Zoom. Halls filled. Slam, bang. Buses waiting. One day down, 132 to go.

BACK TO THE BUS AGAIN—The average busrider at New Haven spends 140 hours or 60 days a year on the bus.

ON THE GO—Jean Barnes and Debby Ayres are just a part of the rat race going to and from classes.

lockers, and meetings

HAIL CAESAR?—Mr. Benson, Mr. Schilling, and Mr. Stephan inspire the team to victory against the Bishop Dwenger Saints.

WHOOPEE!—Senior Steve Goldthwaite is all up in the air with school spirit during one of the pep sessions.

MY CHANGE PLEASE? —One of the most hectic places in the school during noon or a game is the Canteen.

NHHS LOVELIES—Proudly displaying trophies from Junior Miss Pageant are Chris Cogswell, Vicki Alber, Virginia Spragne, Pat Cool, and Suzi Winans.

Not complete alone,

Neither the school nor the community would be complete without the other. A school depends upon its community to function properly and a community looks to its schools for educated, capable future leaders.

Cotton candy, colorful balloons, and fun rides ushered in the Centennial celebrating New Haven's 100th birthday in June 1966. A Centennial queen, a beard-growing contest, and a huge pageant using 2,000 persons to re-enact the settling of New Haven completed the affair.

November saw the excitement of the East Allen County Junior Miss Pageant which honors an outstanding senior girl. NHHS seniors participating were Vicki Alber, first runner-up; Pat Cool, second runner-up; Suzi Winans, third runner-up; Chris Cogswell, fourth runner-up, and Sue Barker. Pat won the talent contest.

GOOD CITIZEN—Senior Sandra Spiker, who won the Daughters of American Revolution award, holds the certificate she received.

MEXICO COMES TO NEW HAVEN—A group of exchange students from Mexico gives a sample of their songs and dances.

VETERANS' DAY MESSAGE—The Viet Nam war came close to home when Capt. Jack Downey spoke to the student body about patriotism.

school and community build for tomorrow

Senior Sandra Spiker won the Daughters of the American Revolution Good Citizenship Award which is limited to senior girls in accredited public schools. It was sponsored in Allen County by the Mary Penrose Chapter of Fort Wayne. Sandy won on the basis of citizenship, leadership, and interest and knowledge of U.S. Government and U.S. history.

Another senior, Tim Morrison, won the American Legion Oratorical contest which took place at NHHS.

The Viet Nam War, so remote in the world of a student was made more realistic as Captain Jack Downey, son of Mr. Byron Downey, came to speak to the student body on Veterans' Day. Immediately after talk, Capt. Downey flew to South Viet Nam to serve as a military adviser.

Probably one of the most interesting assemblies was one performed by gracious representatives of Mexico. Eight Mexican exchange students danced and sang folk songs. The group was a part of the Experiment in International Living program and were housed in homes in Fort Wayne. The program enables students of our nation to live with those of another nation.

Then in January a new television show, "Youth Asks," which features high school students from the Fort Wayne and New Haven schools, made its debut. Four New Haven seniors appeared on the show to interview Joseph Kramm, winner of the Pulitzer Prize for his play, "The Shrike." The four seniors were Douglas Lebrecht, Tim Morrison, Cindy Eynon, and Suzi Winans. Samples of questions asked are, "What do you think of actors and politics?" "Do you like novel or playwriting better?" and "Do you draw your characters from personal friends?"

INCOGNITO—When is a school parking lot not a school parking lot? When it is part of the city's Centennial celebration.

YOUTH ASKS—Mr. Travis helps seniors Tim Morrison, Suzi Winans, Cindy Eynon, and Doug Lebrecht prepare questions for their appearance on the local television program, "Youth Asks."

SERVING OUR COUNTRY—Senior Tim Morrison, winner of the American Legion Oratorical contest, views the American Legion board with the names of the New Haven graduates who are now in the armed services.

SITTING PRETTY—The queen candidates Brenda Kruse, Helen Louraine, Barb Snyder, Bev Quandt, and Cindy Eynon await the coronation preceding the game with the Huntington Vikings. The student body elected the four candidates after the pep session in the afternoon.

Banners, “Beat Vikings,” beauties set stage

Preceding the Homecoming game with the Huntington Vikings, the Bulldog spirit was evident in a lively pep session as students demonstrated team support. Though many clubs helped to deck “Victory Hall,” it was Pep Club who captured the trophy for the best poster. A “Beat Vikings” contest was won by senior Pat Hensley.

Friday night crowds gathered to watch the Homecoming Parade, a long brigade of convertibles carrying cheerleaders, officers, and club representatives. As multi-colored streamers flapped in the breeze, the marching band led the procession from Park Avenue onto the John H. Young Field.

dent Tim Morrison, was the year's Homecoming Queen. She was presented with one dozen red roses at the pre-game coronation.

Following the game, New Havenites munched cookies and refreshments in the Cafeteria between rocking to the music of the "Ravens" at the sock hop in the Boys' Gym.

HERE THEY COME—Senior Al Keltner breaks through the "Beat Vikings" banner held by devoted fans Susie Atwood and Debbie Hansen just before the Homecoming game won by the Huntington Vikings 30—13.

THEY COULD HAVE DANCED ALL NIGHT—Seniors, juniors, sophomores, and teachers danced to the music of the Herman Binkley Orchestra.

Moonlight and Mistletoe put glow into

THINK YOUNG AND REFRESH—Refreshments provided for the couples were made by the Home Economics classes. The Girls' Gym provided a quiet, pleasant setting for the young couples.

"Moonlight and Mistletoe" was the theme of this year's Christmas Snowball Hop December 17. Through efforts of the Student Council committees headed by Tim Morrison, Walt Sorg, Larry Stroble, Michelle Maul, Chris Cogswell, Stan Graves, Bev Quandt, Don Campbell, Cindy Mervine, decorations, of Kelly green and white graced the halls and Cafeteria.

The Cafeteria walls were draped in stately white with green streamers and tinsel-covered mistletoe balls hanging gaily from the lights. The traditional mirrored ball of cut-glass was suspended in the middle of the room to add the touch of elegance. The Herman Binkley Orchestra provided the entertainment. There was also a sleigh and Christmas trees in the room.

Pictures were taken by the west exit. By the Girls' Gym, doors dedicated to both the classes and the faculty glowed with Christmas-colored wrapping paper as each was to represent one huge Christmas package. The girls' powder room, too, was decorated in a glistening array of moon and stars.

Thousands of cookies and green punch made by the Home Economic classes were served as refreshments.

Sponsors of the Snow Ball Hop were Mr. James Sherron, Mr. Edmund Zapp, Mr. James Dupont, Mrs. Etta Wolfe, and Mrs. Sharon Cichowicz.

CHIVALRY DEAD—"Oh hardly!" Senior Stan Peters seems to say as he helps his date with her coat after three hours at a beautiful hop.

SOME ENCHANTED EVENING—Cheryl Spieth and her escort prepare to leave an evening of enchantment and dancing at the Snowball Hop.

Christmas season

TUNES TO BEAT THE BAND—Herman Binkley's Orchestra, consisting of six members and a vocalist, provided gentle tunes for the dancing couples.

SITUATION UNBEARABLE—The Snowball Hop with no snow? Yes, but the decorations provided artificial snow and an antique sleigh.

Bold stripes, paisley prints, suede shoes,

YIPES STRIPES—Fruit striped gum? No, bright striped shell sweaters matched with hip-hugger skirts made big, bold news with gals.

One of the most important things to a fashion-minded student is keeping up with the ever-changing clothing fads. Each year sweeps in new styles and colors. What were they wearing in '67? The spotlight shifts to the fashion scene.

The feminine set sported hip-hugger skirts accented with wide-buckled belts combined with velour sweaters of plum, olive green, gold, heather, and orange. Over-the-knee stockings in various textures and prints completed the ensembles. Also popular with gals were the boy-shirts with the high collars and paisley printed ties. A-line shifts with bell-shaped sleeves, and mini-skirts revealing dimpled knees.

This was the year of the op art jewelry in the form of huge dangling pierced earrings, bangle bracelets, and multi-colored necklaces.

Girls' shoes boasted stacked heels, huge buckles, open sides, open heels. The conventional loafers and suede shoes with straps and ties were "in."

NHHS guys were fashion conscious too. They favored corduroy jackets, shirts of stripes or polka dots, tapered pants in solids and prints, and velour sweaters. Loafers were the popular shoes among the males. As for hair, most boys found a happy medium between the Beatle bob and the shaven look.

FANCY FOOTWEAR—Though the ordinary loafer would win the NHHS shoe popularity poll, Mod shoes gave the wearer distinction.

EARRINGS ON PARADE—Pierced earrings—round, dangling, geometrical, and made of everything from wood to enamel—adorn feminine ears.

WHAT THEY'RE WEARING—Quite the thing in colors this year are unusual combinations such as chartruse and purple, pink and burgundy.

STUDENTS PAY ATTENTION—The American literature students paid rapt attention to Mr. Gordon Harter whenever he lectured about the history of American writers. When studying drama, the class read a play about a witch hunt, "The Crucible" by Arthur Miller.

English curriculum increased by reading,

GESTURES ARE IMPORTANT—Speaking characteristics of good posture, poise, fluency, and eye contact are all exhibited by sophomore Leah Ann Beuscher in Mr. Francis May's speech class.

Three new classes were added to the curriculum of the English Department this year. They were debate, journalism, and reading improvement.

Debate, a one semester class, was taught by Mrs. Gloria Borger. The class of seniors, juniors, and sophomores learned not only the technique and fine points of debate, but also became aware of current events.

The first school newspaper in 20 years was published by the junior journalism class taught by Miss Linda Gregory. The first semester lab gave experience and the second semester was class work. The Journalism I class learned the history of mass media.

After reading achievement tests were given to all the students, classes were chosen to work with the electronically controlled reading improvement laboratory.

At New Haven, grammar was taught for one semester; and the alternate one consisted of either speech, drama, junior literature, American literature, English literature, or composition, a senior writing course.

STAB HIM, SUZI!—Bev Quandt is broken up with laughter watching Suzi Winans harpoon Steve Towsley. The drama class had much work to do, but they had the most fun doing it.

MARCH VISUAL AIDS—Many teachers tried to get away from using diagrams on boards and began using original visual aids.

LIBRARY RESEARCH—Junior debate student Bob Kortenber found that preparing for debate meant many long hours spent in the library.

journalism, debate

PAPER DAY—Juniors Donna Vinson, Marty Silverman, Tom Mathis, and Bart Bircheff prepare to distribute The Herald, the result of two weeks of concentrated effort.

NEW EQUIPMENT—Many students voluntarily gave up their study halls four days a week to use the new electronically controlled reading equipment to develop further their reading skills.

Three foreign languages teach students

STUDY IMPROVES TRANSLATION—(Above) Mrs. Ruth Ibrahim leads the first-year German class in an oral reading lesson. (Right) In group study and translation, Latin students read one paragraph at a time and then translate it into English.

The three languages which open new doors for New Haven High School students are German, French, and Latin. Through these language studies, students not only increase their English vocabulary, but also gain a deeper insight into foreign cultures and ways of life.

Students who study French are given French names in class. First-year French emphasizes vocabulary. Second-year French focuses on spoken French and pronunciation; while in the third and fourth years, study is concentrated on conversation and communication.

German scholars study vocabulary the first year in addition to learning to count in German. During the third and fourth years of the course they study conversation and German literature by such authors as Goethe and Schiller. They also read Stern magazine, the German equivalent of Life magazine, and other language magazines.

The Latin language study concentrates on vocabulary the first year. The second-year Latin students read literature written by Julius Caesar. They also study the epic of Jason and the Argonauts and myths in the original Latin. Third year Latin people read Vergil's Aeneid, while those taking fourth-year Latin read speeches by the Roman orator Cicero. The culture and customs of the ancient Romans are stressed throughout the four years.

MOULIN ROUGE PIANO—French students are gathered around a blazing red piano to sing French folk songs.

MARK OF A TEACHER—Textbooks and reference works filled the rack that dominated the corner of Mr. Thomas Hufford's desk. U.S. History students Craig Rogers, Greg Purvis, Sharon Bennett, and Penny Lepper take notes and listen intently to the class lecture.

Vietnamese war dominates current events

Audio visuals played an important role in social studies courses. Films presenting clips from history, past and present, and geographical studies were shown. Movies on American foreign policy were studied to acquaint the student with his country and world. May 18 and 19 the movie, "Mein Kampf" was shown. It followed Adolph Hitler and his naziism from the time he was an unskilled transient through his domination of most of Europe. It portrayed the horrors of concentration camps and the utter uselessness and destruction of war.

In November a government class was initiated into the mechanics of voting. They studied the paper "Let's Talk Politics" which gave information on elected officers and briefly stated party platforms. Student committees, appointed to study the paper, prepared questions in outline form to present to the class. Then, as in any real election, they prepared election buttons, campaign posters, and campaign papers and pamphlets.

An all-morning lecture on Civil Defense was in the Auditorium for area government students in December. After the program, Civil Defense was studied in the classes. They studied shelter information—their location and what to expect of the people in them. Shelter problems of provisions and communications were taught. Special information on the construction of home shelters was given. Students completing the work were awarded certificates.

The undeclared war in Viet Nam was a major current events discussion topic. Many students had relatives and friends fighting in the jungle war which had taken over 10,000 American lives by the end of school. The power struggle and the evolution of the teenage "Red Guard" in China, and the American and Soviet space disasters were other topics of discussion. A history class had panel discussions about draft laws and teacher strikes on the local level. In studying the intricate workings of the American form of legislation, a U.S. Government class conducted its own senate session. Students set up the mock senate to put into practice their knowledge of our legislative branch of government. Each student wrote a bill and submitted it to a committee. The senate committee read the bills and sent the better ones to the "senate floor." After discussion and debate the bills were voted on. From the session the students decided to declare war on Viet Nam, repeal the medicare law, and to lower the legal voting age from 21.

The psychology and sociology classes studied the problems of man in his environment and man and his mind. In the spring, they took a battery of personality tests.

NAPOLEONIC HISTORY—Mr. Edmund Zapp uses a map to clarify his points on the Napoleonic Era to world history students Jim Reams, Pat Geise, and Pam Taylor. They are all sophomores.

Mathematics classes prepare students

EQUATION DRILL—Paula Percy, Melodie Rose, Chuck Rossman, Dean Stine, and Gary Karbach work first year algebra equations at the blackboard.

Reviews and board drills helped the students learn and retain the basic concepts of algebra.

FIRST DEGREE EQUATION—Sophomore Kit Conrad plots an equation on a graph projected on the board by an over-head projector.

LOGIC AND REASONING—Jerry Ambrosini, sophomore, uses reasoning, logic, and common sense to complete a geometry assignment.

for future living

Computers took over jobs this year that hadn't even been devised 25 years ago. Every day the world became more and more complex; great emphasis was placed on technical training. Mathematicians with the help of computers, undertook jobs that would have staggered Atlas. Every federal income tax forms were checked, and satellite paths to the planets were calculated.

Mathematics courses helped prepare students for life in this complex world. Business math taught pupils how to handle figures and understand basic arithmetic used in every facet of life in the home and on the job.

Logic and reasoning powers were developed in plane geometry, a sophomore class. Having the answers was not enough; the how and why had to be explained.

The theories of Galois, taught in modern algebra, gave pupils a whole new math vocabulary to handle—sets, function, systems, and graphs.

Senior mathematicians struggled with secants and tangents, sines and radiands. In the final year of mathematics, college prep students studied one semester of advanced algebra, while the second semester was occupied with the study of trigonometry.

SIN C EQUALS . . .—Senior John Hack constructs triangles at the blackboard as proof of trigonometry statements.

CONCENTRATED STUDY—The student institution known as “cramming” seldom helps pupils taking geometry tests. Attention in the classroom and daily study is the better way to prepare for a test.

IN THE CABBAGE PATCH—Surrounded by flats of tomatoes and geraniums and a five-year-old castor bean plant, sophomore Pete Mallers and senior Dick Burkett work in a flat of cabbage plants.

Science students use

Every two years, man's total store of knowledge doubles. Thousands of scientific books are printed every year; but the day after a chemistry book is published, new facts discovered by the technical explosion has made the book obsolete. In this atmosphere, New Haven teachers taught science fundamentals to students.

The basic course, physical science, was a survey of all the sciences condensed into a general study. Biology pupils studied plant and animal kingdoms and the members of the major phylla. In a unit of dissection, a series of simple animals ending with the frog was closely studied. Botany and zoology were extensions of biology. Each of the semester classes did much laboratory work including growing plants and dissecting fetal pigs.

Basic chemistry was one of the three chemistry classes offered to students. It was mainly for girls who planned to go into the field of nursing. First year chemistry and advanced chemical analysis were the two other courses. In physics, the natural laws of the universe were taught and then demonstrated and explained.

CHEMICAL ANALYSIS Seniors Craig Hooker and Al Hearn complete one of the many scientific experiments required in advanced chemistry.

THIS LITTLE PIGGY—Sophomore biology students Duane Brown and Diane Coblenz follow laboratory manuals as they dissect a fetal pig. Pigs were used instead of frogs because the physiology of a pig is closer to that of a human being than any other animal.

SILK SCREEN POSTERS—Publicity posters for the fine arts day were made by the silk screen method of printing by Doug Lebrecht, senior.

Art, when studied for three years, first teaches basic work and then progresses to applied design. The final year uses the knowledge gained in the previous years to complete advanced assignments.

Many projects were done this year. The beginning classes completed two community projects—fire prevention posters in the fall and poppy posters in the spring for the American Legion Auxiliary. The class's first project was drawing realistic pencil and chalk sketches of a plant. In the exercise they learned to compare proportion and recognize positive and negative space. Color theory was studied by using designs. Then they progressed to life drawings done with ink and a stick. Finally, painting and contour drawing was done.

The junior art class studied applied design. In working with ceramics, they made wheelpots and vases using the coil method. They also experimented with ceramic owls and "kooky pots," free-form pottery. Three dimensional design was studied, and jewelry was made. The class worked with sterling silver on wood, silver on silver, and silver set with stones.

Linoleum block prints were one of the advanced class assignments. The class experimented with many different forms of prints. Colored inks were used; paper collages were printed over, and multiple prints were made by printing the same design several times on the paper. Two types of wall hangings were made. In the first, designs were worked out and then stitched onto colored burlap with yarns. The stitchings were tacked to a wooden frame and hung. The other hangings were woven on student-made frames from such highly textured materials as twine, rafia, and twigs.

LITTLE BROWN JUGS—Pottery vases made by the coil method were done by juniors Bobbie Blosser, Jeannie Pollock, and Sharon Churchward in the ceramics unit of the junior art class.

The music season started the week before school at band camp on Blackman Lake. The band spent the week marching and conditioning for the coming season. The marching band played for football games in the fall and was in public parades. In the late fall, the marching band was transformed into the concert band. The concert band won a superior rating at the state contest at Snider High School. They performed at assemblies and put on the winter and spring concerts. The stage band, a select group of 20 musicians, played at area dances and dinners.

The new Swing Choir, composed of members from Concert Choir and Glee Club, performed more difficult music than the other groups. They teamed up with the stage band for a concert in the spring. Concert Choir, which received an excellent rating at the state contest, gave concerts at area churches and also at school assemblies. Girls' Glee Club gave concerts at the Lutheran Old People's Home and at other places in this area.

SEVENTY-SIX TROMBONES—Senior brass player John Gear practices in one of individual practice rooms in the band complex.

CEMENT, WOOD, NAILS, AND GLASS—The senior boys in the carpentry and concrete class gained much practical vocational experience when they added a family room to the house of Mr. Jerry Mitchel. The class also had other outside projects.

Students acquire practical experience in CLEANING UP—Seniors Carol Buhr and Rose Ratliff learn that washing dishes is just as important as cooking the food.

"I can't work on the roof—I'm afraid of heights." This was only one of the many problems overcome by the boys in the new carpentry and concrete class. They gained practical experience when they added a family room to Mr. Jerry Mitchel's house in Highland Terrace. About one-fifth of the time was spent inside the classroom planning the work; the remaining time the boys were out on the job.

Vocational experience was also gained in the mechanical and architectural drawing classes, woodworking, metal shop, auto mechanics, and electricity.

IT WON'T VAROOM—Senior Greg Smith works on one of the automobile engines in the auto mechanics shop.

MEN INVADE KITCHEN—Seniors Bill Jacobs, Tom Fisher, and Steve Goldthwaite bake individual pumpkin pies in boys' foods class.

Child care, clothing, and foods were condensed into a one-year course for girls who otherwise would not have had time to take the regular home economics courses. Home nursing was also taught this year.

In boys' foods, the seniors planned menus, prepared meals, and learned to budget. They experimented and concocted original recipes. If the amount learned was proportional to the amount of food consumed, then the boys will always feel at home in a kitchen. The big day of each semester was when a full-course meal was prepared for guests from the faculty and administration.

PLANS FOR THE FUTURE—Duane Brown works diligently on original house plans in the architectural drawing class.

REAP WHAT YOU SEW—An inexpensive wardrobe is what was reaped by senior Brenda Delp who stitched together a skirt in clothing class.

New stenography lab

A $20,000 stenographers laboratory was added to the high school complex late last fall. The steno lab is a miniature business college preparing girls to go straight into employment situations after graduation instead of spending another two years in secretarial training at a business school.

One half the cost was provided by the government with the East Allen County Schools paying the remainder. The program was instigated to upgrade vocational areas in high schools. Electronic calculators, transcribing and duplicating machines, and electronic adding machines were installed. The electronic lab, (a set of ear-phones that could be tuned to play four different tapes at any speed), was also used when the girls met three periods each day. The class did not go into the community for a practical work program; instead, tapes were collected from area businessmen and played back in the lab. For two weeks the pupils were lab technicians, and for the next they were industrial secretaries.

Other business classes also prepared students for future jobs. The standard secretarial courses were typing, shorthand, and bookkeeping. General business, business math, and sales technique gave experience and knowledge in the area of sales. The business law class received first-hand experience in court proceedings by attending a trial in the county courthouse in Fort Wayne.

FUTURE SECRETARIES—Typing students, who someday may work in the office of a corporation executive, first learn the basic skills.

ELECTRONIC LABORATORY—Steno lab students are tuned in on the earphones to tapes taken from area businessmen. Instead of going out into the community for practical work, the work is sent to the school and the students never have to leave the room.

KEEP THE LEGS STRAIGHT—Spotters Mike Larrance and Mike Poeppel are important in steadying Steve Shopell on the horizontal bar.

"Up-2-3-4 ... Down-2-3-4 ..." Every day five days a week, sophomores attempted to become physically fit through calisthenics and activities. Apparently the girls became the fittest. The National Youth Fitness Tests were given in the spring and fall; thirty-two girls earned Presidential Physical Fitness Awards, while only three boys earned the certificate and jacket patch. According to these test results, the girls are no longer the tender gender.

"Footfolly," a combination of soccer, kickball, and baseball, was a new game invented by Miss Anne Berkypile, the girls' gym teacher, and played for the first time this year. The girls also struggled through units in basketball, softball, volleyball, tumbling, track, and creative dance. Some of the girls swung a mean paddle during the weeks table tennis was played.

"Twenty-five sit-ups ... 50 jumping jacks ... 35 push-ups ... 20 laps around the top of the bleachers" often started many boys' gym periods taught by Mr. Sam May. The units of activity included football, volleyball, basketball, and tumbling—horizontal bar stunts, mat tumbling, trampoline jumping, and rope climbing. Some students lifted weights during the tumbling unit. Also, there was track, table tennis, and baseball.

SPIKE IT!—Volleyball, the international sport, teaches not only co-ordination, but also team co-operation.

JUMPING JACKS—A calisthenics time every day helped prepare the students to compete for the Presidential Youth Fitness Awards.

DEN OF THIEVES—Creative dancers Jeannie Byrum, Cheryl Crawford, Kathy Armbrust, Carol Baker, and Karen Schmutte were caught in the act of “robbing a safe” in the Girls’ Gym.

PING FOR THE SERVE—Table tennis was one of the sports that can be played for relaxation after high school is finished.

Bulldogs “snowed under” at season’s end

FIRST DOWN—Junior halfback Denny Partridge runs for a first down against Huntington, as two tacklers try to stop the play.

SPIRIT BONES—This mighty bulldog served as our mascot during the Homecoming game which the Vikings of Huntington won 30—13. The bulldog is owned by sophomore Sue Bauers.

An early snow canceled the final game of the season. The 13 seniors who would have played their last game against Bishop Luers were Al Peterson, Rick Boren, Denny Ludwig, Steve Lepper, Rich Burton, Greg Pearson, Ed Schinnerer, Bill Oliphant, Al Keltner, Mark Tucker, and Ron McCaule.

South Side, which was third ranked during the season, was among the three unbeaten, untied teams scheduled this year.

There were 12 seniors, 10 juniors, and 2 sophomores who won varsity letters for their participation this year. Five of these boys received letter jackets.

New Haven lost several games by a touchdown or two. In New Haven's Homecoming game the Bulldogs fell to the Vikings of Huntington, 30—13. New Haven got off to a roaring start when half-back Dave Leeka scampered across the goal line in the opening minutes of the game.

Junior Bob Farrell had the best rushing average with 5.4 yards per carry.

POW! BAM! CRASH!—Halfback Mike Reinking appears to be hit while trying to catch the football during the game against Central. For the Bulldogs it was a home-opener, with Central winning 20—0.

PEP TALK—Head Coach Armstrong explains game strategy to the team during half-time of the South Side game.

Junior Varsity ends season with 3—3 split

The 1966 Junior Varsity football team, under the direction of Coach Don Huml, ended the football season with a record of three victories and three defeats.

Two of the regular season games were canceled because of bad weather. These games were against North Side and Central of Fort Wayne.

The individual high scorers were John Clem and Pat Her-nicz, each getting four touchdowns or 24 points for their season's work.

The team played their best game on the ground, gaining more than 1,200 yards on the running plays. This is an average of 200 yards rushing per game.

New Haven played their best game against Garrett, which the Bulldogs won 28—0. Clem had his best game against Garrett scoring two of his four touchdowns.

Defensive standouts were juniors Larry Koeneman, Charles Sadler, Stan Geels, and sophomore John Barnes.

Many of the underclassmen showed much talent as the season came to a close. The future looks very bright and the Bulldogs hope to improve on last year's season.

New Haven given third straight Sectional

For the third consecutive year, New Haven was defeated by North Side in the Sectionals. This year the Bulldogs were eliminated in the semi-finals.

In the last quarter of play, a mix-up caused the loss of a few valuable seconds. Sophomore Al Lahr was forced to try a desperate shot from the corner in the last second of the game. Lahr's arching shot bounced off the rim giving the Redskins a victory.

The first game of the Sectionals was a contest between New Haven and Bishop Dwenger. The Saints were defeated in their first meeting with the Bulldogs at the War Memorial Coliseum, 57-46.

In season play, the 1966-67 varsity basketball team posted a record of 11 victories and 9 losses. The team's offensive average was 70.6 points a game and the defensive average was 63.6 points a game.

No bad omens mar 13 Bulldog victories

The unlucky number 13 seemed to have lost its curse as the 1966-67 Junior Varsity basketball team won 13 of its 20 season games. The Bulldogs also won the Junior Varsity Tournament which was at Bishop Dwenger.

High scoring Bulldog of the season was junior Phil Ehinger with 146 points. Sophomores Don Wilkins and Pat Hernicz were best at the free throw line. Wilkins hit 74 per cent and Hernicz hit 76 per cent. Junior Bob Farrell led the rebounding with 76 rebounds.

Coach Jerry Mitchel said the JV's used the full court press in most victorious games. He blamed a poor scoring average for most of the losses. The JV's defensive average was 38.8 points a game, and the offensive average was 42.4 points a game.

The Bulldogs fought to an eight-game winning streak early in the season, but were halted as they lost to North Side, 42-23, Jan. 14. The team finished the season winning four of the last seven games.

WARMING UP—Two of the top three harriers, Tom Armor (front) and Donn Treese, run a country mile in practice.

The cross country varsity squad finished the 1966 season with twelve victories and two losses. New Haven placed fifth in the Goshen Invitational, third in the NEIAC, second in the IHSAA Sectional, and twelfth in the IHSAA Regional.

Runners compete on a rough two-mile course not only against others, but also against the stop watch. The season's best time, 10:09, was turned in by Joe Kelty, senior, and Donn Treese, sophomore.

Two seniors earned their fourth varsity award, Kelty and Tom Armor. Seniors Bill Shrock and Larry Stroble received their third varsity award. The only Bulldog to receive such an award, Treese was given a medal for his 11th place finish in the NEIAC.

Bulldog grappler qualifies for Regionals

Senior Dave Leeka was the only grappler to get past the Sectionals. New Haven placed fourth in the Sectionals and third in the NEIAC meet in January. Both were at New Haven. The wrestling team also placed third in the New Haven Invitational Tourney Jan. 7.

The 1967 varsity wrestling team, with Head Coach Stan Hostetler and Assistant Coach Jerry Goeglein, ended the regular season with a record of six victories and six losses.

New Haven got off to a slow start winning only one of the first five meets. However, as the season progressed, the Bulldogs won five of the last seven meets.

Junior Tom Lomont and Leeka had the best individual records winning 11 of 12 and 10 of 12, respectively. Neither wrestler was pinned during regular season competition.

For next year eight of the 12 varsity matmen will return, providing Coach Hostetler with a fairly experienced team. An improved schedule would make the Bulldogs tougher for the always rugged Fort Wayne sectionals.

Armor, Shrock, Partridge set records

FLEET FEET—Senior Bill Shrock starts the 440-yard dash in which he broke the school record. He circled the track in a blistering time of 51.8 clipping three tenths off of the old school record. The old record was set by Bob Mattingly in 1955.

The 1967 track team unexpectedly broke three old records, one which stood for 12 years. Seniors Bill Shrock and Tom Armor broke the records in the 440-yard dash and the mile run, respectively. Shrock bettered the old mark for the 440-yard dash by three tenths of a second, setting the new mark at 58.1 seconds. Armor's record is 4:35:7 breaking the old mark of 4:36:6 set by Ron Berning in 1961.

Junior Denny Partridge broke the record set by Dave Dew last year by going 20' 10" in the broad jump event.

Head Coach Everett Cass' team ended the season with a record of one victory and eight losses. Coach Cass was assisted by Coach Don Huml and Chester Sanders.

Eight of the team members qualified for the Sectionals. To qualify for the Sectionals, one must match or better the standards set by the IHSAA Board of Control. The eight who qualified for the Sectionals were Partridge, Shrock, Armor, Donn Treese, Gery Hoepfner, Mike Scheele, Steve Bultemeier, and Larry Stroble. Shrock was also elected honorary captain by his teammates.

Partridge captured the individual scoring contest by gaining a total of 90 points. Shrock was second with 52 points and Bultemeier scored 49 1/2. Armor was fourth with a total of 42 points.

The 1967 track team consisted of six seniors, 18 juniors, and 14 sophomores.

HIGH JUMPER—Larry Stroble added his ability and three year's experience to the track team by being best man in that event.

PERFECT FORM—Sophomore Al Lahr goes over the high hurdles. Al was top scorer in that event.

Diamondmen finish

New Haven's varsity baseball squad ended regular season play with a 9—4 record. Three of the losses came at the hands of North Eastern Indiana Conference foes, with the fourth dealt by Van Wert, Ohio.

Coach Paul Armstrong's diamondmen finished third in the conference following Garrett and Concordia. Both teams defeated the Bulldogs during season play. The other conference defeat was from Auburn.

The varsity golf team finished off the season with a North Eastern Indiana Athletic Conference championship. The Bulldogs won the match played at Kendallville May 13.

The golfers had to forfeit early season matches because of a 47-year-old rule on eligibility. Two varsity players were declared ineligible because they had accepted trophies during a summer golf tournament.

The team's record would have been a commendable ten victories and eight losses, but the final tally was seven victories and eleven setbacks.

Coach Frank Clark's team finished fourth in the Sectional meet with a combined total of 337 points.

Senior Rich Burton was the season medalist with a low score of 400.

Intramural sports geared for average boy

The intramural program, under the direction of Mr. Sam May, is geared for the average boy who cannot, or does not care to participate in varsity sports. The boys can participate in any of three sports. These sports are flag football, volleyball, and basketball.

Participants in these sports gain points toward an intramural letter and service bar. To get a letter, a boy must gain 125 points a year. A service bar is awarded to anyone with 100 or more points. Participation in all three sports in a single year will result in the achieving of a letter; however, points are deducted if attendance at the games is poor.

The intramural program serves as a constructive outlet for individual energies. There are no requirements placed on entry into the program, except that the person be a student at New Haven High School.

from loyal backers

School spirit, so vital for success in interschool sports, is heightened by enthusiasm displayed by three organizations designed for this purpose—Pep Club, Bulldog Boosters, and Reserve Pep Club.

For years New Haven lacked an official school mascot, so Pep Club members put their imagination to work. They gathered old sheets, newspapers, and foam rubber. The result was a six-foot spirit bone which boasted the artwork of senior Linda Boone and is now proudly displayed at sporting events. The new mascot, after having made its debut at one of the pep sessions, will continue as a symbol of school spirit for the years to come.

Pep sessions were important in creating school spirit and bolstering the morale of the teams. New cheers such as the beat cheers, with senior Colby Knerr on his drums, were introduced to the student body at the pep sessions.

Members of Pep Club made countless posters which adorned the halls, urging students and athletes to Scalp Redskins, Tromp Trojans, Beat Vikings, and Sting Hornets.

Pep Club also purchased new purple and white reversible tops which brightened the cheer block.

Sponsors of these organizations were Mr. Robert Wolfe, Mr. Jerry Mitchel, and Miss Ann Berkeypile.

Two clubs encourage good sportsmanship

Letterman's Club and Sportsmanship Council encourage good sportsmanship and school spirit.

Sportsmanship Council is the newest club at New Haven and is sponsored by Mr. John Bertels and Mr. Robert Wolfe. Sponsored by Mr. Paul Armstrong, Letterman's Club is one of the oldest school clubs.

Sportsmanship Council, formed at the beginning of December, promoted good sportsmanship by making the "Spirit Bone" and planning and performing the pep sessions. The club consists of class representatives and cheerleaders.

Letterman's Club had 75 members, 26 of whom were inducted and received jackets this year.

Mr. Don Richart, basketball coach at Fort Wayne South Side, was guest speaker at the April banquet.

Red Cross collects books for Viet Nam

Red Cross, sponsored by Mrs. Janice Chase and Mr. Gordon Harter, is a service organization devoted to the welfare of the less fortunate in the community.

Making nut cups for Thanksgiving and St. Patrick's Day and delivering them to the Allen County Nursing Home was just one of the many service projects performed by the club members this year.

Red Cross also staged a Viet Nam Book Drive in the fall. About 100 books were contributed by the student body for the American GI's in Viet Nam.

Few students realize what they can do to benefit society. To make them aware, Red Cross put Conscience posters in the school halls during the month of December. These posters encouraged students to give blood and stressed the importance of knowing how to give first aid in case of emergencies or accidents.

Because the NHHS Red Cross Club is affiliated with the Fort Wayne Chapter House, it participated in the annual city-wide Red Cross carnival at the Veteran's Hospital. Singing, dancing, and instrument playing by members from this school helped to brighten the day for the war veterans.

Number 13 lucky for Masque & Gavel as

The number 13 did not prove unlucky for Mr. Francis May as he directed his 13th play at New Haven High School with the help of Mr. Willard Travis and Mr. Milton Sinn. This year's "Rally Round the Flag, Boys" proved to be a record presentation. To begin with, it was the most expensive play the club has ever done. Also, instead of the traditional two performances, three performances of the play were given this year. This boosted ticket sales to the record high of 2,354.

Several new techniques for New Haven's Masque and Gavel were employed in this year's two-act production. Seldom seen in high school plays, the freeze is a striking device which allows attention to be centered on the speaker. In direct contrast to the freeze, the fight scene involved action on the part of the whole cast. Also unique was the fact that the role of Grace Bannerman was successfully double-cast.

Masque and Gavel also had several one-act plays they performed throughout the year for the community and school assembly. On Fine Arts Day they presented "Balcony Scene." The other plays were "His First Girl," "Standing Room Only," and "Little Jackie Horner."

New Haven NLF

The New Haven High School NFL chapter won the Leading Chapter Award last fall. Mr. Bruno Jacob, executive secretary of NFL, presented the national award to the New Haven chapter for activities from 1957-66.

On Nov. 12, 33 schools sent 639 students to the 11th annual New Haven speech tournament. These speakers competed in eight divisions.

During the competitive season the New Haven speech team brought back 12 solo trophies and two debate trophies. Mr. Francis May, Mr. Milton Sinn, Mr. Willard Travis, and Mrs. Gloria Borger directed the team.

Although state champs for the last two years, New Haven bowed to Indianapolis Warren Central in the state contest April 2. New Haven's speech team ranked third with ribbon winners Cindy Eynon, first place in original oratory; Craig Hooker, second place in radio; Lois Grabner, second place in girl's extemporaneous, and Tim Morrison, fifth place in boy's extemporaneous.

Future Business Leaders receive charter

FILM IN THE MAKING—Stan Peters and Barb Snyder examine slides for film entitled "Business Subjects at New Haven High."

A Christmas party for 20 children at the Allen County Home, a film entitled "Business Subjects at New Haven High," and a lollipop sale were part of FBLA's activities.

This year Commercial Club received its national charter and is now affiliated with the Future Business Leaders of America. FBLA is sponsored by Mr. Jerry Goeglein and Mr. Byron Downey. The purpose for which this organization was formed was to "develop competent, aggressive business leaders and to create more interest and understanding in the intelligent choice of business occupations."

The major project of FBLA was developing a film showing all New Haven business courses in action. This film was first shown in April.

The sale of lollipops and Irish linens increased the club treasury. This money was used to buy pins for the typing and shorthand classes.

FBLA also had a party for school age children from the Allen County Home. At this party the film "The Littlest Angel" was shown, refreshments were served, and Santa gave the children gifts.

FBLA concluded its activities with a banquet at the Hall's Smorgasbord. At this banquet new officers were announced.

Hi-Y sends boys to Indiana State House

Learning the culture and customs of people of other countries, being of aid to members of the community and becoming acquainted with the democratic form of government were Hi-Y's objectives this year.

The Youth in Government Program was inaugurated this year by Hi-Y members and their sponsors, Mr. Don Stebing and Mr. Tom Hufford. In this program nine boys went to the Indiana State House and passed mock legislation on an experimental basis.

Hi-Y members also sent educational materials to Hi-Y clubs in India. These materials gave information on the establishing and maintaining of new clubs in foreign lands.

In February two basketball teams representing the New Haven Hi-Y club challenged other Hi-Y clubs.

The selling of student directories—an annual service project—was again a success this year. These directories were compiled and distributed by club members.

Monthly meetings and speeches at the New Haven Methodist Church played an integral part in "creating and maintaining Christian character" among members. One of the most interesting speakers was a former South Side student who is a member of the Norway Youth Conference.

Taiwan, Cambodia, and Argentina were a few of the countries where Hi-Y members had pen pals. This project proved to be entertaining as well as educational for all participating members.

Hi-Y social activities included a hockey party at McMillan Park and a banquet in the spring.

French Club awards three scholarships

CAKE FOR SALE—Cutting cake for the annual French Club cake sale are Linda Sherman and other members.

French Club sold class pins, had a cake sale, operated a Moulin Rouge for the Fine Arts Day, and awarded three $50 scholarships to students planning to major in French in college.

French Club, now in its sixth year at New Haven, is sponsored by Mrs. Sandra Tucker. According to the La Jacques constitution, French Club was originated to give students "opportunities for participation in the learning of customs, history, and geography of France; and also to encourage intelligent individual and group thinking that would contribute to the club."

Both business matters and skits were discussed and presented at French Club bi-weekly meetings. The meetings opened with the singing of the national anthem, "La Marseillaise," before the French flag.

The sale of class pins by French Club was a "first" for New Haven. This sale netted the club's treasury $175. Sixty dollars was also earned by the two-week annual cake sale. This money was used for scholarships and for the financing of the spring banquet.

At the French Club banquet the new members from last September were initiated and officers for the coming year were announced. At the banquet a member from each of the three classes was honored for his time and effort devoted to the club's activities.

Old folks enjoy German Club party

German Club cultivates interest in customs, background, people, and language of Germany. This club, now in its fifth year at New Haven, is sponsored by Mrs. Ruth Ibrahim.

The year's activities began with the initiation of eight new members. To gain membership these German students performed such tasks as drinking from baby bottles and wearing baby caps.

At Christmas time 25 club members had a party for 50 old persons at the Allen County Home. This activity helped to brighten the Yuletide season for these elderly citizens.

Another major undertaking was the re-writing of the club's constitution. All members agreed to add an amendment to their constitution which would enable students with only one year of German to become members of German Club. In the past, no one was entitled to membership unless he had had two or more years of the foreign language. Not only was this new amendment made to the old constitution, but also the new charter outlined the duties of the officers.

Regularly planned meetings stimulated interest in German culture. At one meeting a movie about modern Germany was shown. The film was entitled "From Bonn to Berlin" and aided in the study of the modern German people.

Romans investigate Senators at banquet

Sending a Latin student abroad, attending a Junior Classical League convention, and throwing a Roman banquet headlined the major activities of the 1967 Latin Club.

Sparkling the month of April was the annual Roman Banquet on the 20th, one day before Rome's birthday. The central theme was SPQR or The Senate and the Roman People. The banquet, which was attended by over a hundred Latin members and guests, featured a skit written by Bradd Swank, depicting a called meeting of the Senate to investigate two notorious Senators, Adamus Claytonius Powellius and Doddus Crassus, portrayed by John Oberlin and Doug Lebrecht, respectively.

Two major achievements of the year include meetings once a month with films and short skits, and the sending of two busloads of students to Ball State University for the annual Junior Classical League Convention.

The club treasury appropriated money for the State Scholarship fund, Christina Winicker's Honors Abroad trip and Martha Berning's expenses for the summer Latin workshop at Indiana University. Latin Club sold apples for two weeks as a money-making project.

The club, which is sponsored by Mrs. Vivian Rogers, Mr. Henry Seger, and Mrs. Lois Sidell, has built up its membership to the present 162 members.

Social Studies Club sponsors book fair

A book fair and a party for children at the Fort Wayne State School were just two of the many activities performed by the 20 members of Social Studies Club.

Social Studies Club, sponsored by Mr. Tom Lamb, Mr. Jean Beugnot, and Mr. Stephen Simon, began its year of activities by babysitting for children of parents who wished to vote in the national elections.

Two guest speakers enlightened club members on the social problems confronting society today. Sheriff Robert Bender gave a talk on the subject of youth and crime. He stressed the obligation youth had in curbing the steady rise in crime. Another speaker was a settlement house worker. He discussed the poverty situation in and around the Fort Wayne area.

For the third consecutive year Social Studies Club had a book fair. This fair was run jointly with Future Teachers Association and lasted for two weeks.

Children at the Fort Wayne State School were entertained by Social Studies members. At this Christmas party refreshments were served and games played.

Social Studies Club ended its year of activities with a banquet March 29 at Hall's Smorgasbord. All social studies teachers were invited to this banquet. For entertainment Chris Cogswell and Larry Koeneman gave dramatic and humorous speeches.

Math, Science Clubs

Two important parts of New Haven's extra-curricular activities are Math Club and Science Club. Both clubs work with a common goal and interest of applying math and science to everyday occurrences.

Math Club, sponsored by Mr. Schilling, was awarded a charter in Mu Alpha Theta, an international high school mathematics club. To qualify for membership the applicant must have taken five semesters of high school math and have a B average in all subjects.

CLOTHES THROUGH THE AGES was a program performed by the members of Home Ec. Club. Karen Wetoskey models her dress of the 1920's.

Among the many activities of Home Ec Club this year were demonstrations of subjects such as corsage-making, fabric designing, dancing, small appliances, credit-buying, history of fashion, modeling, and gift-wrapping—all of which helped to enlighten Home Ec members on various aspects of home economics.

One of the major undertakings of the club was making pajamas for 12 girls at St. Vincent Orphanage. Upon completion of the pajamas, club members planned a party for the orphans where the girls opened gifts, sang songs, and played games.

To increase the club treasury, Home Ec Club sold stationery, note cards, and recipe cards. At the end of the year a scholarship was awarded to a girl planning to major in home economics in college.

Climaxing the club's activities was a spring banquet to which the girls invited their mothers. The Jericho Singers provided entertainment for all. Mrs. Robbins from W & D's also gave a demonstration on gift-wrapping. Junior and senior homemaker awards, honoring the outstanding members, were also presented.

For the first time since the formation of the club six years ago, this organization was open to any girl regardless of her previous homemaking experience.

Industrial Arts Club repairs toys for tots

TOOLS ON DISPLAY—After the Industrial Arts Club banquet, Paul Standiford, Dave Larson, Tim Trzynka, Ron Wilson, and Jim Brown admire each other's tools that they won for outstanding work.

Many Fort Wayne children had a merrier Christmas as a result of the combined efforts of members of Industrial Arts Club. Each year club members sponsor a service project entitled "Toys for Tots." Toys such as dolls and wagons were collected, repaired, and presented to the Christmas Bureau for needy children.

Industrial Arts Club, sponsored by Mr. Denny Benson, Mr. San Coffman, Mr. Philip Stuckey, and Mr. George Turner, has been at New Haven three years. The purpose of this organization is to offer to boys taking industrial arts courses further job and career opportunities.

Many speakers came to the Industrial Arts meetings. Among these were a speaker representing General Electric Apprentice School and a man from Howard W. Sams Technical Institute. These men told about their respective schools and also about the various technological areas—electronics, tool designing, and architectural and engineering technology.

The Industrial Arts Club banquet was April 25 at the Hobby Ranch House. At this banquet Mr. Coffman and Mr. Benson presented a skit entitled, "The Average Day of Harry Hazard—Teacher." Mr. Benson then presented awards to outstanding industrial arts students.

PUTTING THE STUFFINGS IN—Nancy Watkins and Doris Schulthies helped stuff toy animals for the Allen County Children's Home.

Supporting a Korean orphan, making candy cups for 128 patients at the Veteran's Hospital, and filling Thanksgiving baskets for needy people of the community were the major service projects performed by Y-Teens Club.

After World War II women who were members of the YWCA organized the Y-Teens Club to give young girls something to do after working hours. This organization grew rapidly and there is now a worldwide club.

Y-Teens, sponsored by Miss Mary Manifold, Mrs. Helen Troyer, and Miss Betty Leuenberger, was originally called the Sunshine Club. In 1964 the club affiliated with the national YWCA and is now the Y-Teens Club.

The purpose of Y-Teens Club is to grow in friendship with all people, to grow in love and knowledge of God, and most important to grow as a person.

Each year Y-Teens replenishes its treasury with the sale of potato chips. This money is used to support a Korean child, make stuffed animals for children at the Fort Wayne State School, and to send two representatives to the summer Y-Teens conference in Indianapolis. Money was also donated to the YWCA World Fellowship Program.

Y-Teens ended its year of activities with an all-city banquet on April 18 at the YWCA. At this banquet slides were shown of the Y-Teens summer conference. A Nite Owl Party honored sponsors in the spring.

Student Council spearheads new projects

SHIRTS FOR SALE—Student Council officers Walt Sorg and Larry Stroble display T-Shirts sold during April.

Last fall Student Council established five new permanent committees—leadership, citizenship, sportsmanship, safety, and maintenance.

The leadership committee supervised elections of JV and varsity cheerleaders and the election of the next year's Student Council officers. The committee also inaugurated the Sophomore Orientation Program.

Citizenship committee was responsible for the front hall bulletin board on which the committee saluted outstanding organizations. This committee also arranged for the publication of a revised handbook.

The sportsmanship committee provided the caravan for the sectional basketball tournament. They also helped pay and work on the Spirit Bone.

Each month the safety committee chose a Safe Driver for the Month and hung fire drill direction signs.

The last committee—maintenance committee—investigated and reported maintenance problems such as dripping water fountains, stairs, doors, and lights.

Other council projects were Homecoming, Snowball Hop, and the selling of T-Shirts. Tim Morrison, Walt Sorg, Michelle Maul, and Larry Stroble headed the council. Sponsors were Mrs. Wolf, Mrs. Cichowicz, and Mr. Zapp.

Student Council ended its year of activities with a banquet at the Gerber Haus on April 27.

Audio-Visual and Chess Clubs learn skills

Two New Haven High clubs mainly concerned with the learning of skills are Audio-Visual Club and Chess Club. The ten members of Chess Club organized to develop the recreational skill of chess playing, while the 20 Audio-Visual Club members learned the skill of operating film and slide projectors for teachers. Club members also repaired tape recorders and record players.

Audio-Visual Club, sponsored by Mr. Don Huml, has been at New Haven for three years. Chess Club has also been at the school for the same number of years and is sponsored by Mr. Norman Stephan.

Audio-Visual Club members worked in the canteen to raise money to get a tape-type film splicer for the school. The splicer will be useful for mending films.

Members of Chess Club play chess at each meeting, and at the end of the year, a trophy is given to the person who has won the most games.

Chess Club banquet was April 25 at the Gerber Haus Restaurant. At the banquet Mr. Stephan gave a talk, and chess championship trophies were awarded.

FTA members tutor junior high students

LENDING A HELPING HAND—Barb Neff tutors a junior high student with her English book, through a project undertaken by FTA.

The Future Teachers of America is both a service and informative club at New Haven High School. Beginning with a breakfast for the teachers in September, monthly service projects were continued throughout the school year. These projects included placing cookies and poems on the teachers' desks and decorating the teachers' lounges at Christmas.

The prime objective of FTA is to inform its members of as many aspects of the teaching career as possible. This was done in various ways. The club sponsored a Teachers' Aid program by which members are assigned to help teachers with grading papers and recording grades. FTA Week, April 10 to 14, was observed by members grading papers and decorating bulletin boards for the elementary teachers. Also, through a tutoring program initiated by the Education Committee of the Fort Wayne Mayor's Youth Council, members tutored junior high students who needed extra help in understanding a subject.

At monthly meetings an effort was made to bring to the members information about preparation for a teaching career. Among the speakers this year was Claire Rossman, past president of FTA and a freshman at the IU-Purdue Regional Campus. In a panel discussion, Mr. Harter, Mrs. Cichowicz, and Mr. Klopfenstein explained some of their ideas about the teaching profession.

Skits and films prepare girls for nursing

A party for children from a Fort Wayne orphanage and a banquet plus skits, speakers and films at bi-weekly meetings were Future Nurses of America activities for the 1966-1967 school year.

Future Nurses was organized in 1958 and is sponsored by Mrs. Beulah Faulstick, who is also teacher of the child care and home nursing courses. This year FNA applied for a national charter to the Future Nurses of America organization. It has not yet received its charter, but hopes to become affiliated next year.

For the first time, FNA established a pin point system which meant that all members wanting a club pin must have 25 points by April 18. This enabled all members to participate in the club and at the same time work for a pin that they deserved.

FNA also offered a $25 scholarship to a senior member of the club. This scholarship is usually used for the payment of uniforms and books when the recipient has enrolled in college.

Skits are presented each month by club members. These skits either humorously or seriously portray the medical occupations, especially nursing.

Future Nurses ended its year of activities with a banquet at the Compass Room April 28.

MONEY MATTERS—Business manager Alene Schneider, circulation manager Linda Sherman, assistant manager Bart Bircheff, and publicity chairman Mike Trulock count Mirage receipts and discuss finances.

This was a year of firsts for the Mirage—an award, record sales, Christmas party, ad pictures, and a publications banquet.

Last summer Editor-In-Chief Charlotte Want won an award for her lecture notebook at the 20th High School Journalism Institute at Indiana University. The award is a four-inch square paperweight. The base is Bedford Limestone and the top bears a gold replica of the Institute seal.

The subscription staff sold a record number of 930 Mirages. Yearbooks were sold from Oct. 3 to Nov. 4. Junior Ed Pearson won the competition among the classes for high salesman. He received a free Mirage for the 76 yearbooks he sold. Leading salesmen in their respective classes were senior Mike Trulock, 57; junior Paula Fisher, 32, and sophomore Kathy Poorman, 40. Each of the leading salesmen received a stuffed animal for their efforts.

Even with all the work of writing copy, getting pictures ideas, and meeting deadlines, the Mirage staff found time to have a Christmas party with The Herald staff. The party was at Linda Sherman's house Dec. 21.

Although the final deadline was still to be met, the Mirage staff celebrated with a publications banquet May 15 at the Hong Kong Inn.

First Herald staff discovers newspapering

School began Sept. 7 and four days later the first issue of The New Haven Herald made its debut.

It takes many long hours to put out a good newspaper, and the job was done by the 24 juniors on the staff. Publishing a newspaper, they found, involved meeting deadlines, writing copy, interviewing news sources, writing cutlines, distributing papers, clipping stories for the morgue for future reference, and writing headlines for each issue of The Herald.

The Herald was published 19 times during the school year. This year Martha Berning was editor-in-chief and Miss Linda Gregory, adviser.

The Herald sent five representatives to the Ball State Journalism Day, April 29. Each of the students attended newspaper sessions on how to put out a paper. Martha Berning was one of the two students elected to help plan next year's Ball State Journalism Day.

The New Haven Herald joined National Scholastic Press Association which provides with critiques and the Indiana High School Press Association.

Martha and Paula Fisher, business manager, attended I.U.'s two-week summer High School Journalism Institute editor's workshop and news conference, respectively.

The 88 members of Concert Band began preparing for performances even before school started. From Aug. 29 to Sept. 2 they went to band camp at Camp Potowatomee on Blackman Lake where they got in about 40 hours of practice in marching and playing. Practice paid off in the state marching contest in October. The band received a first place (superior) rating.

Members of the band participated in the solo and ensemble contest in February where they received 7 first place ratings and 11 seconds at the state contest. In the NISBOVA State Choir and Band contest in March the Concert Band received a superior rating.

In February the band members helped the Band Parents' Organization with their annual fish supper.

Besides participating in contests and helping with the fish supper, the band performed for school activities. In October the marching band led New Haven's first Homecoming parade and they continued to perform at each home football game. With the marching season over, the purple and gold pep bands took over and played at all the basketball games.

In April the Concert and Dance Bands performed at New Haven's first Fine Arts Day. They participated in the annual Winter concert in December, and in May they presented the Spring Concert.

BACKSTAGE—Seniors Barb Schulthies, Tom Swihart, Renee Ahlersmeyer, and Kerm Zimmerman comb hair and straighten stoles.

The New Haven High School Concert Choir, Swing Choir, and Girls' Glee Club did more than make public appearances this year.

In February choir members participated in the state solo and ensemble contest where one group received a superior and two groups received excellents. At Christmas time the choir appeared on two television programs for WANE. The members helped the Choir Parents Organization with the annual pancake supper in March. In the NISBOVA contest in April the Concert Choir received a second-place "excellent" rating. They also sang at the annual Winter and Spring concerts and for the Baccalaureate and Commencement ceremonies.

The Swing Choir consisted of 21 members selected from Concert Choir. They were accompanied by seniors Colby Knerr on the drums and Bob Oliphant on the string bass. Swing Choir also participated in the solo and ensemble contest where they received a superior on the local level and an excellent at the state level.

This year's Girls' Glee Club was the largest ever with 74 members. The girls taped a television program during the Christmas season for WKJG. At contest they, too, received an excellent.

scholastic Who's Who

The National Honor Society inducted 31 new members, including 12 seniors and 19 juniors, on March 16 at the annual all-student assembly.

Outstanding students are elected to National Honor Society on the basis of leadership, scholarship, character, and service to the school. Anyone with a "B" average is eligible for membership, and all members must maintain the "B" average throughout membership.

Some of the pet projects undertaken by the society included compiling a reading list for the college-bound students and a tutoring program whereby members tutored students who needed help in various subjects.

Annual activities were the informal tea, honoring the new members and their parents directly after the induction, and the spring banquet.

New members were informally initiated at the April banquet at the Gerber Haus Restaurant. Lively initiations took place before, during, and after the meal. Each new member was given his own moment to shine.

Mike Reinking did a ballet step taught by Ann Hertzog; Janet Combs demonstrated her seamstress talents by making Dick Hoagland a jacket and tie with newspapers, tape, and thread; Sandy Spiker had to search for each course of her meal from salad to dessert; Susie Nahrwald had to find three hidden golf balls before she could eat; nimble Barb Snyder did a junior high cheer while athlete Mike Ehinger had to dribble a basketball during the meal. Charlotte Want, told a fairy tale in Chinese.

Spotlight on People

Halls. Living halls, throbbing with the seething, humming sounds of their existence. Talking, whispering, shouting. Footsteps, shuffling, running, plodding, up the stairs, down the stairs. Bang! Slam! Locker Doors. Crunch, crackle. Wasted paper. Crash. More shuffling. Books in profusion. Grinding-grizzling-greedy pencil sharpeners. Hustling, bustling they come—molders of the year. Questioning, searching, they live each moment. Gay, reckless, feeling, raucous, quiet, proud, humble, restless, serious, boisterous, sensitive they come. They see and are enlightened. They hear and are inspired. They work and are rewarded. They learn and look to the future. Their joys, tears, hopes, dreams, thoughts and attitudes leave marks of '67.

NHHS teachers appreciate big blizzards as Grading tests, hall duty, lunch line duty—all these things are jobs of the New Haven High School faculty. Each teacher has lunch line duty once a week and is in charge of the detention hall three times a year. They spend much of their time preparing and grading tests. Besides the job of teaching they also must attend faculty and curriculum meetings. Each teacher has one period of the day as his preparation period. Each teacher acts as a sponsor to a school club.

The high school secretaries are given the job of assisting the principal, assistant principal, guidance counselors, and teachers in making the school run smoothly and efficiently. Some of the high school secretaries' duties are answering the phone, typing the announcements, the absentee list, and reports, as well as many other regular jobs.

The administrative secretaries help Mr. Harding, Mr. Guenther, Mr. Miller, Mr. Holt, Mrs. Edgington, Mr. Wise, Mr. Ferguson, and Mr. Reifsnider to perform their duties as East Allen County Schools' administrators. The duties of the administrative secretaries are essentially the same as those of the high school secretaries.

much as students

New Haven's staff of cooks is given the duty of preparing the noon meals daily for the students. Their time is devoted to peeling potatoes, frying hamburgers, serving the meals, and also washing the dishes after each noon meal. During the 1966-67 school year there were six cooks on the staff.

The custodians' time is devoted to sweeping floors, cleaning blackboards, scouring sinks, and washing windows. Most of their work is done after the students have left and the halls are empty. There are six janitors who undertake the daily task of cleaning the building.

MRS. MARIE PERRIN, R.N.—As high school nurse, Mrs. Perrin is on duty every day during school hours to assist students who are injured or who become ill while at school. Her clinic is located on the second floor of the East High School.

New Haven years

The Class of 1967 followed the many customs and traditions of previous years; however, its memory will retain a prominent place in the school's history. Led by head sponsors Mr. Milton Sinn, Mrs. Ruth Ibrahim, and Mr. Dennis Benson, the class struggled and frolicked through the years to graduation.

To avoid the financial difficulties, a system of class dues was set up in the sophomore year.

As juniors the class presented "Carousel" to the seniors of '66. King Denny Ludwig and Queen Cheri Kruecker danced amid the green and pink decorations to strains of the theme song, "If I loved You."

Seniors also proved instrumental in the planning and execution of New Haven's first Homecoming. Members of the class combined efforts to organize the parade, coronation, and dance.

Early last fall several of the more daring boys of the class confiscated the old bell perched atop the East High School building. After polishing, painting, and mounting the bell, the boys presented it to the school.

The arrival of spring found seniors busy with Commencement practice, college acceptance forms, scholarship applications, selective service registration, and the search for temporary or permanent jobs.

SENIOR OFFICERS worked throughout the year to guide the Class on '67. They were Barb Snyder, secretary; Kerm Zimmerman, treasurer; Walt Sorg, vice-president, and Larry Stroble, president.

TOP GRADUATES—Valedictorian Jim Spreen and salutatorian Marilyn Stoller receive their diplomas from School Board members.

The junior-senior prom, baccalaureate, the senior dinner-dance, and commencement exercises concluded the year for the 1967 Senior Class.

The junior-senior prom was May 6 from 9 p.m. to 12 midnight at the Scottish Rite auditorium. The theme "Enchanted Island," was seen in huge flowers and tiki gods which adorned the ballroom. Juniors Ed Pearson and Jewell Bleeke were crowned king and queen.

Baccalaureate was Sunday, May 21, at 8 p.m. at the Allen County War Memorial Coliseum. The Rev. Don Utterback, guest speaker, gave the invocation and the address. Concert Choir sang under the direction of Mr. Carl Nicholas.

They sang "Onward Ye Peoples!" "The Lord is My Shepherd," "You'll Never Walk Alone," and the choral "Benediction."

The senior dinner-dance May 24 at Cutter's Chalet featured the Argos. A skit "Our Victory Bell" by Tim Morrison recalled the school year.

Three hundred thirty-nine seniors received diplomas from school administrators at the commencement exercises Thursday, May 25, at the Colliseum. The Rev. Stratford Eynon gave the invocation and Dr. John Dunworth of Ball State University gave the address. Following the address the Concert Band played an overture entitled, "Dragoon of the Villars."

INTERVIEW WITH THE KITCHEN CHEF—"There ain't no cause for this here strike in the New Haven High School Cafeteria over bloody chicken. It ain't bloody. Why we done served all the blood Monday," says Walt Sorg to reporter, Tim Morrison in the skit given at the dinner-dance.

The Scottish Rite Ballroom was transformed into an exotic "Enchanted Island" for the Junior Prom May 6. This event was made possible by two money raising projects of the Junior Class—their class dues and a coffee-house. The class sponsored a coffee-house, Devil's Hollow, Jan. 13. Entertainment included folk singers—the Jerico Singers, Rick Meyers and Dean Stine, Kerm Zimmerman, and Patti Cool and Mike Trulock—plus Greg Theurer and Clark Newhall doing narratives.

Around Christmas time the class sponsored a penny-pitch by placing a large chimney in the front hall. The money collected in the chimney was given to the radio station WOWO's Penny Pitch, where it was used to give an underprivileged family a happy Christmas.

To help prepare them for college, many juniors and their parents attended College Night Oct. 3. On Oct. 22 many ambitious juniors took the PSAT Test along with students all over the country. In November the juniors took the Iowa Achievement Tests.

HELPING HANDS—Seniors handed out information sheets about the high school clubs to the sophomores at orientation night. At orientation the sophomores learned about the activities at New Haven.

The new IBM system was introduced to both sophomores and upperclassmen this year. The class schedules were prepared prior to the 1966-1967 school year.

During the first hectic week at school, the Student Council presented an orientation program to the sophomores. The purpose of the program was to promote school spirit through out the year. The president of each club described the activities of his organization.

Next on the list of things to be done by the new students was the traditional ordering of class rings. This year the white gold seemed to be just as popular as the traditional yellow gold.

The sophomore class elections were in October. The aspiring officers campaigned for a week with snappy slogans, posters, and speeches. The officers elected were Tom Reinking, president; Ted Wall, vice-president; Debbie Springer, secretary; and Linda Carl, treasurer.

Class dues also had to be paid. After learning that the class dues provided future funds for junior and senior activities—the prom, Senior party—the new students were reconciled to paying class dues.

Living in a new atmosphere was exciting to the new sophomores who had previously spent their years in a junior high. There were new types of assignments and new faces that made the year complete.

LEADERSHIP SPELLS SPIRIT—Organizing class activities and displaying class leadership among high school students were the officers for the sophomore class. They were Tom Reinking, president; Ted Wall, vice-president; Debbie Springer, secretary, and Linda Carl, treasurer.

Thanks to one and all

A year of blood, sweat, and toil has passed and my thanks are due to the many persons, students and faculty members, who contributed to this our finished product, the 1967 Mirage. First a hearty thanks to Doug Lebrecht and Linda Boone for the artwork on the cover and through the book. Next thanks especially to Judy Rosswurm for all the nights she stayed after to slave on the organization section, to Martin Silverman for all his cheery encouragement in times of stress, ("Charlotte, it'll never work. Why don't you give up?") to Sharon Silverman for contributing her flair for copy and cutlines and for not typing out Martin's term paper until he turned in his copy to the Mirage. Neither can I forget Kris Andersen who'll be a great typist provided she learns to spell, nor Ann Hertzog, Gail Renier, and Helen Louraine who were always around when we needed help badly. Thanks also to Scott Williams for the pictures he took and to the two sports editors Tom Smith and Stan Ohneck who, I hope has convinced someone to go to Purdue even though he isn't. To Mike Trulock, Linda Sherman, Bart Bircheff, Alene

Schneider a thank you for the hard work on the business staff. Also my thanks to Mr. Jim Arthur, representative from the yearbook company.

I want especially to express my appreciation to Dick Hoagland for being a loyal friend, more-than-dependable assistant, and all-round good egg and for trying to keep the cookie box filled despite poverty and cookie-snatchers.

Last, but hardly least, I wish to thank our fearless leader and dedicated adviser, Miss Linda Gregory, not only for her patience, lively spirit, and kooky sense of humor, but also for being able to grit her teeth and forge on even when we "dumb kids" goofed on pages and I couldn't type.

Thank you, staff—one and all—for an interesting year. May you look back upon the 1967 year and this book with fondness and much satisfaction.
